THEME

The Viksit Bharat initiative is underpinned by several key frameworks that guide its implementation. At its core are the four pillars identified by the government: Yuva (youth), Garib (poor), Mahilayen (women), and Annadata (farmer). Out of these, youths are the center of national transformation. With the largest young population in the world. India's progress depends on how effectively its youths are empowered with relevant, future-ready skills. Skill education plays a crucial role in integrating academic knowledge, practical competence, innovation and employability.
